...make healthy families.
The health of our children is at stake.

This year state government will be forced to cut over $12 billion from the budget.

That means we could lose programs like Healthy Families—which provides low-cost health insurance to children in our community.

We need legislators that will protect the programs that benefit our children’s health—because healthy children help make healthy families.

Councilman Mark Ridley-Thomas knows how important programs like Healthy Families are to our community. He has spent his career—from his work in the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) to his career as our City Councilman—helping improve our communities and quality of life.

Mark Ridley-Thomas will fight to protect programs like Healthy Families, and will work to expand them to cover families as well as children.

For more information about Healthy Families, call 1(800) 880-5305 or simply fill out the card below and drop it in the mail.

Mark Ridley-Thomas for State Assembly
Councilman Mark Ridley-Thomas has made the health of our community and families his top priority:

- Helped support community-based clinics to improve access to health care for women and children.
- Secured funding for Home Care workers to provide healthcare support services for seniors.
- Worked to eliminate toxic mercury contamination in Los Angeles’ water supply.
- Helped build several new child-care centers in the 8th Council District.
- Secured $1.5 million for an Adolescent Drug Rehabilitation Center.
- Located the first school-based clinic in the 8th District at the new Rita D. Walters Family Development Educational Complex (Vermont & Manchester).