

DEPLETED URANIUM

Destroying Veterans Lives...

...Polluting the Global Environment

Depleted Uranium:

it's radioactive, it's a toxic heavy metal, and it can bind with DNA to cause chromosome damage. It's been used in weapons and armor plating since the first Gulf War, continues to be used in Iraq, and the fallout from it's use continues to poison our troops, local civilian populations, and is now being detected in countries as far away as England. And, because it isn't widely reported on in the American press, you probably haven't heard of it...until now!

The Coalition to Ban Depleted Uranium invites you to a forum at the Riverdale-Yonkers Society for Ethical Culture to learn what's known about DU through the personal accounts of those who have been exposed, witnessed and studied it's effects

Our Guest Speakers will be (from top):

Frida Berrigan - Senior Research Assistant, World Policy Institute

Rev. Lucius Walker - founder of Pastors for Peace

SSgt. Ray Ramos - featured in the documentary "Poison Dust"

Monday June 12, 2006 7-9 PM
