

Music Ambient beat track throughout.

Open on a funky, small-town coffeeshop. The waitresses seem unusually excited. A teenage girl, Stephanie, hurriedly looks at herself in her compact, revealing a shot of Avon makeup

In the background, we see a concert poster of a famous singer on the wall.

Cut to a customer at a table, in his early twenties, finishing a cup of coffee as he writes in a notebook. It's revealed that he's the same singer from the poster. Another counter girl whispers loudly to the main teenager, "He needs a refill!"

The girl goes to refill his coffee, barely containing her delight. He looks up from his notebook at her and smiles. Cut to a shot of her nametag—Stephanie.

Singer:
Thanks, STEPHANIE.

She smiles in an embarrassed way.

She notices that he's written some song lyrics. Prominently at the top of the page is her name, Stephanie.

Shocked, she spills coffee all over the table.

Cut to her quickly wiping it up with a rag

Stephanie:
Sorry! Sorry!

Singer:
No problem.

Cut back behind the counter: Her friends are shaking her and squealing as she laughs. Meanwhile, in the background, a beautiful girl walks in and heads toward the singer's table.

Suddenly, the girls' joy turns to disbelief...

...as the singer gets up to kiss the beautiful girl.
He gets up to walk out with her:

Walking out with the girl, the singer casts a meaningful smile back at Stephanie.

Close on her face, a small smile returning.

VO:
It's tough enough being a teenager without having to worry about makeup.
